

'Monitor' Names Editorial Chief

BOSTON, Jan. 30 (UPI)—American Broadcasting Company news commentator and Christian Science Monitor columnist Joseph C. Harsch has been named chief editorial writer of the Boston-based newspaper.

Harsch, who joined ABC in 1965 after working for CBS and NBC, has worked as a reporter and columnist for the Monitor steadily as well since 1929 after receiving his master's degree from Cambridge University, England. He now will work fulltime for the Monitor.